James, 31, who is serving an 18-month suspended jail sentence for his part in the fraud, told the court how he and Miss Clark started to work together at the job centre in 2001. He said: "We were both on the same phone line and she was working at the job centre in my name. "There was a number of calls when she would say 'Oh I'm ringing from his name'. "She explained to the people on the other end of the line that James was in prison. "I didn't know how to use her credit card or bank accounts." James said the payments for the goods were not paid for from his prison account but they would later be paid for from the sale of a Land Rover he owned. Mr Justice Corlett said: "You became two people. One of which was a convicted felon at a very young age. "You had a very tenuous hold on the reality of the world and it was very hard for you to extricate yourself from it. "You had to have your identity changed so you could carry on. You were almost happy to lose yourself." On the day of the shoplifting James, who was in a relationship with Miss Clark, contacted his mother to say he was in custody but was not making bail. James said: "I didn't want to give her any false hope. I wasn't in touch with her for the first couple of months." On September 11, 2002, James was released from prison and moved in with Miss Clark. Mr Justice Corlett said the couple now had a child together although the child's father was not in their lives. Detective Inspector Mark MacLeod said: "James did it for the 0cc13bf012

The Adobe product that I am using a Mac Pro 8 core with OS TheÂ . As the Adobe Flash Player has reached end-of-life, Adobe has made available the Open Source player SWFDec as a recommended replacement for Web browsers. The free Flash Media Server can convert and stream Flash Player content to SWFDec, a free client. With its release, Adobe removed support for Flash Player on Windows 8 and newer, along with Windows XP. Adobe hoped to make the switch to HTML5 and Web technologies by the end of 2015, though it has not yet been implemented by all their software and hardware partners. Here's why Adobe Flash Media Encoder might not work on other operating systems. For questions about Adobe Media Encoder: Adobe Media Encoder 14.2.0.1345522. Click the link at the bottom of the page, or save the Adobe Media Encoder (Adobe Media Encoder 14.2.0.1345522) free download link to your hard drive and then double-click on the file to install the software. You can also use the download link at the bottom of the page. This file is a .EXE file. The software installation may not start correctly if you are using a different operating system. For more support information, see the readme.txt file included in the download. Prerequisites: The below version of Adobe Media Encoder does not support previous versions of Windows. Please follow the installation instructions for the specific version of Adobe Media Encoder you are trying to install. Mac OS X supports 755 directory permission and executable files. The default permission is for them to be executable, which means that anyone with read permissions can read the file, anyone with write permissions can write to the file
