Pretty Big Deal, And You Need To Know Pretty Big Deal, And You Need To Know is the title of a spiritual/musical style album by Mary J. Blige recorded in March 2010. The album was released on March 6, 2010 on Tommy Mottola's new imprint, Redeye/RCA Records. The album debuted on the Billboard Top 200 Albums chart at No. 153 and No. 3 on the Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums and had sold 16,000 copies in its first week. Production According to Mary J. Blige, the idea for this album came while at the Grammy Museum in Los Angeles, where she was excited that she received an award for Best Pop Collaboration with Vocals for her work with Snoop Dogg, Paul McCartney, and Yoko Ono on "Give Me Your Love". Blige is quoted as saying: "I was like, I can't believe I won for this!" She tells Billboard, "I thought, I bet these other artists would like to work together. So I started making calls." As she prepared to tour for this album, she received a call from executive producer and long-time collaborator R. Kelly. He told her that he had signed on to do the lead role in the sitcom In the House of God and asked Blige if she would be interested in serving as the show's music supervisor. Blige accepted the role and began reviewing the scripts with Kelly. After that meeting, she spoke to music supervisor Tim Geithner, from the Fox television network, and in September 2009, Geithner called her to say he had a project for her. She was told that the project was a contemporary musical starring Mary J. Blige. The project, called The Lottery, was a comedy that aimed to tap into the current trends in reality TV shows. As to why she chose to work with R. Kelly again, she told Billboard magazine: "R.K. is a force. He's a commanding presence. He's this leader—this alpha male in that office." The songs According to the singer's website, the album is composed of 14 tracks, including: Songwriting credits All songs written by R

You need to open it again. See Specifically: Warning f should already be open for writing, since I/O is buffered. The buffer will be flushed automatically when the file is closed. See the file, open() and file, open() methods. Since open("geoiddata","wb") returns a file object, you could do something like: results = open("geoiddata","wb") results.write(readdata) results.
